Dear Chairman Bosco:

I am writing in support of the Maritime Museum of San Diego's request for a grant of $100,000 to promote a 2008 Tall Ship Festival of Sail for the State of California.

It is appropriate that the Maritime Museum of San Diego be the coordinating institution for the State of California because of its track record in organizing a succession of similar events in San Diego, as well as assisting other California ports.

In 1999, 2002 and 2005, the Maritime Museum of San Diego did an exemplary job helping to bring these magnificent ships to California ports. In the past, the Maritime Museum of San Diego took the lead in hosting tall ships in San Diego and to assist other ports in conducting their own tall ship festivals.

Planning is needed now to guarantee the appearance of large, Class A and Class B tall ships. Class A and Class B tall ships are in great demand and they are often reserved several years in advance. This grant will allow California to attract more ships and ensure increased participation and coordination of all interested California ports for the 2008 events.

I also want to express my appreciation for your support of the Maritime Museum of San Diego endeavors in past years, and for any future support of their efforts in coming years.

Sincerely,

CHRISTINE KEHOE

Dear Chairman Bosco:

I am writing in support of the Maritime Museum of San Diego's request for a grant of $100,000 to promote the 2008 "Tall Ship Festival of Sail." Because of its track record organizing a succession of similar events in San Diego and other state ports, the Maritime Museum is the ideal choice to serve as the coordinating institution for the this event.

Advanced planning is needed now to guarantee the participation of large Class A and B tall ships. Both are in great demand and they are often booked several years in advance. This grant will allow the state to attract more ships and ensure increased involvement of, and coordination with, interested California ports.

Tall ships are an important part of the history of early-California and there is no organization that does a better job or preserving that history than the Maritime Museum of San Diego. I hope that you will see fit to approve this grant.

Sincerely,

Assemblyman Mark Wyland
