Attention: Sue Corbaley

Dear Chairman Bosco:

I am writing to support the Yurok Tribe's application for the development of watershed restoration and recreational resource plan for the Klamath River estuary. The Klamath River and the estuary is the cultural and natural resource center for the Yurok Tribe.

The submitted project would identify and plan for the development of an interpretive trail network around the estuary and evaluate the feasibility of a river transit system. Increased recreational opportunities and coastal access for the public will provide a long-term framework for site-sensitive development on the Yurok Reservation.

I support Yurok efforts to restore the estuary and to increase recreational opportunities for the public. I encourage your favorable consideration.

Sincerely,

Re: Support for the Yurok Tribe's Klamath River estuary proposal

Dear Ms. Corbaley:

I am pleased to support the proposal submitted by the Yurok Tribe to the Coastal Conservancy to conduct a three year comprehensive watershed restoration and recreational resource planning project in the Klamath River estuary.

The Klamath River estuary project would provide the funding necessary to determine the feasibility of a River Transit System and a culturally appropriate, interpretive trail network in the area. These concepts offer the prospect of increased recreational opportunities and coastal access for the public while providing a long-term framework for site-sensitive development on the Yurok Indian Reservation.

I am very supportive of the Yurok Tribe in their efforts to develop a coordinated, large-scale restoration plan for the Klamath River estuary. The fisheries and wildlife resources and the estuary are vital to the Yurok People. I fully support the Tribe in their efforts to restore the estuary and provide increased recreational and coastal access opportunities within the project.

I urge your favorable consideration of the Yurok Tribe's proposal. If I can provide any further information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Respectfully,

PATTY BERG

Re: Letter of support for the Yurok Tribe's proposal to the Coastal Conservancy to conduct restoration and recreational resource planning in the Klamath River estuary.

Dear Ms. Corbaley,

We are writing in support of a proposal submitted by the Yurok Tribe to the Coastal Conservancy to conduct a comprehensive watershed restoration and recreational resource planning project in the Klamath River estuary. The Klamath River estuary is a beautiful place where nature and native culture still prevail. The Coastal Conservancy funded project as proposed by the Yurok Tribe would provide the funding necessary to develop further such ideas as the River Transit System and a culturally appropriate, interpretive trail network in the area. Our organization is especially interested in these concepts and the prospect of increased recreational opportunities and coastal access for the public.

The Board of Supervisors supports the Yurok Tribe in their efforts to develop a coordinated, large-scale restoration plan for the Klamath River estuary. Fisheries and wildlife resources and the estuary are vital to the Yurok People as well as all residents and visitors of Del Norte County. We look forward to the estuary restoration plan and any potential increased recreational and coastal access opportunities developed by the Yurok Tribe during this project.

Thank you for your time and consideration of the Yurok Tribe's proposal.

Sincerely,

David Finigan, Chair
Board of Supervisors

Dear Ms. Corbaley:

I am writing in support of the Yurok tribe's proposal to conduct large-scale restoration and recreational research planning in the Klamath River Estuary.

COASTWALK is a volunteer grassroots organization committed to coastal access and preservation and the completion of the continuous 1200 mile California Coastal Trail. Our vision is a well-stewarded California coast -- highly prized as an irreplaceable commons -- open to all. Our mission is to ensure that the right of all people to reach and enjoy the coast of California.

We greatly support efforts like the Yurok tribe's efforts to provide culturally appropriate interpretive trail network in their area and encourage your support as well. This project will promote greater coastal access for the public -- residents and visitors alike for generations to come. Estuaries in the state of California are endangered environmental sites and we must do all we can to protect the few remaining.

Thank you for all you do for coastal preservation and completion of the California Coastal Trail. Working together we can help eliminate some of the barriers that prevent the trail from being complete in our lifetime! I can think of no greater accomplishment to ensure coastal access than completing the CCT for California residents and visitors alike. The coast is surely the state's most precious natural resource requiring constant vigilance and celebration.

COASTWALK is privileged and proud to call the Coastal Conservancy a prime partner in completing the Coastal Trail.

Sincerely,

Fran Gibson
