

4) Signs and Funder Acknowledgement Requirements

As part of your grant agreement, we require that you publicly acknowledge Coastal Conservancy funding for your project and/or program. Prior to beginning your project, you must submit a plan to your Conservancy Project Manager for how you will acknowledge your Conservancy grant.

For construction projects, this includes a plan for installing signs that contain our logo at the project site. Use of the Coastal Conservancy name and logo on signs must be approved in advance by your Conservancy Project Manager.

Our Guidance Plan for Signage and Acknowledgement details our requirements and suggestions around acknowledging Coastal Conservancy funding. Our Logo and Signage Guidance provides basic design guidelines for using the Coastal Conservancy logo.

Interpretive signage and materials can reinforce the message that all visitors and their safe uses of outdoor spaces are welcome and respected and that the full story of the California coast comes from multifold perspectives. When developing interpretive materials, the Coastal Conservancy encourages grantees to refer to our Tips for Creating Inclusive Interpretive Materials. Working with communities to develop these messages is typically an allowable grant expense.
